News From The Gay Rights National Lobby

The Gay Rights National Lobby announced recently that the AFL-CIO has taken an official position supporting the "civil rights of all persons without regard to sexual orientation." Delegates meeting at the 15th Biennial Constitutional Convention in Hollywood, Florida, overwhelmingly endorsed a resolution urging passage of lesbian and gay civil rights legislation at the local, state, and federal levels. The AFL-CIO represents 14 million union members.

William Olwell, a vice president with the United Food and Commercial Workers Union, has been working closely with Steve Endean, Executive Director of the Gay Rights National Lobby, on GRNL's Labor Project. Olwell coordinated efforts that led to the resolution's successful passage.

"I am very proud, and on behalf of the gay and lesbian communities of the United States, I want to applaud the forward thinking you have shown," commented Olwell on the convention floor.

"We are tremendously pleased at the action taken by the AFL-CIO. Clearly, the labor movement understands the need and importance of legislation to protect all workers from discrimination," said Endean, "Bill Olwell is to be commended for his energy, skill and dedication."

Senator Ernest F. Hollings (D-SC), recently became the eighth cosponsor of S. 430, the Senate bill which would protect lesbians and gay men from employment discrimination. Hollings, an announced candidate for the Democratic Party nomination for President, re-stated his support for the bill to GRNL Field Director Tanyan Corman and to Chairs Riddiough of the National Organization for Women at the NOW's national convention.

"This is an example of several organizations working together for lesbian and gay civil rights," stated Corman. She credited Hollings' co-sponsorship to the work of many individuals and organizations including GRNL, NOW, and the National Association of Lesbian and Gay Democratic Clubs. Tom Chorlton, Executive Director of the National Association, had particularly worked to assure Hollings' support.

GRNL's Executive Director, Steve Endean, praised Hollings not only for his recent co-sponsorship, but also added, "Senator Hollings played a key role in the past by standing firm against former anti-gay 'McDonald' amendments to Legal Services Corporation bills that passed the House and were sent to the Senate sub-committee he chaired. With his help we were able to stop these amendments from becoming law."

Animals Getting In

On The Act!

More and more evidence keeps cropping up about homosexuality among non-human mammals. Recently, two reports were published about lesbian horses and gay rams.

Marijo G. Kent, a cytogeneticist at the University of Minnesota's large-animal clinic, reported that she has identified dozens of mares whose genes are scrambled. Such XY sex-reversal mares appear outwardly to be females, but they have the XY chromosomal structure of males. The abnormality apparently causes some of them to engage in studly behavior. According to Kent, "When released into a yard with other mares, they try to mount them."

The second report, coming out of the University of California at Davis, revealed that sheep ranchers may be unwittingly encouraging homosexual behavior in their flocks. It has long been known that often mammalian farm animals engage in some homosexual activity when they are young. But many rams continue such activity even after they mature and are exposed to eager ewes.

Edward Price, an animal science professor at UCD, thinks traditional practices of segregating males from females after weaning but before they are ready for breeding may be the problem. "They may be mounting males so much that they become conditioned to seek out male stimulus. Development of some sort of social attachment among the male animals is also a possibility for the post-adolescent homosexual behavior."

Price said that studies show that as many as one in three rams are slow to react sexually to ewes and a small percentage will never show normal sexual activity. "It appears, based on what we've done so far, that if a male repeatedly mounts the same male, he shows no interest in females."

The Kitchen Fairy

THE RISE BEFORE THE FALL

The bronzed boys of summer give way to hunky farm boys bringing in the fall harvest and hanging it upside-down in the barn to dry. My dears, the very thought of it lets me easily put summer behind me (which is where I put most things I love!) and wing my way into Fall with expectations and appetites the size of a bull!

This fairy doesn't think of Fall as the demise of Summer, but as the rise of the social season, which, I might add, I initiate with a gala brunch--a farewell to summer salads, a hello to heartier fare. After all, what is Fall but a change of reasons?

This fairy doesn't think of Fall as the demise of Summer, but as the rise of the social season, which, I might add, I initiate with a gala brunch--a farewell to summer salads, a hello to heartier fare. After all, what is Fall but a change of reasons?

And although I can't go down on the farm (oooooh--I'd love to!), I must say I lay out a harvest fest that would bring any farm boy to his knees. (Swishful thinking!) This is a breakfast for the big boys, for the hands working my fields. A hale, hearty and hot fall breakfast to help get it up in the morning. A true farmer's delight. And, after all, everyone knows the farm is where the cock crows (and every day!).

It's Fall. So rise to the occasion with this menu for six.

ON YOUR KNEES
SPUDS FOR STUDS
EGGS OVER EASY
(But of course!)
ROSEMARY'S SAUSAGE
BLUE BARRY'S MUFFINS
(Or other hot buns!)
FRESH FRUIT
(Is there any other kind?)
COFFEE
COLD CHAMPAGNE
(For what's left of the afternoon!)

ON YOUR KNEES Serves: 6

(2 drinks each)

Two of these at brunch and not only will you fall on your knees, you'll hear the angels' voices!

Preparation Time: 25 minutes

Ingredients:

The juice of 24 oranges, freshly squeezed.
The juice of 4 limes
2/3 cup orange-flavored liqueur
3 cups of vodka
1/2 cup Campari

Preparation:

1. Put everything in a pitcher and give it a twirl.
2. Chill for at least three hours or, better yet, overnight. (If you just can't wait, stir vigorously with loads of ice.)

3. Serve on your rocks.
(NOTE: This is a fabulous hangover cure--whether you're hung or not!)

SPUDS FOR STUDS

How do you handle a hungry man? Well, this is one way, sweetlips!

Preparation Time: 1/2 hour

Cooking Time: 1 1/2 hours

Ingredients:

1 pound potatoes
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1 cup milk
1 small onion, minced
1 egg, lightly beaten
2 Tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper, to taste

Preparation:

1. Preheat your oven to 350 degrees
2. In a large bowl, swish together everything except the potatoes.
3. Skin the potatoes and shred them, stirring them into the milk mixture as they are shredded so they don't brown out on you.
4. Butter (and be generous with the butter), a 1 1/2 quart flat baking dish. Pour in the potato mixture and cover toute with foil.
5. Bake for 1 hour. Uncover and bake for 30 minutes or until the top is as golden as those bronzed summer boys.

ROSEMARY'S SAUSAGE Serves: 6

Honey, this is not where the baby came from!

Preparation Time: 20 minutes

Cooking Time: 8 to 10 minutes

(Refrigerates overnight)

Ingredients:

Have your favorite butch(er) grind these together for you--
1 1/2 pounds lean pork
1 pound lean veal
1 pound fresh pork fat
1 Tablespoon salt
2 teaspoons dried sage
1/2 teaspoon dried marjoram
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons dried rosemary
1 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme vegetable oil, for frying

Preparation:

1. Throw everything except the vegetable oil into a bowl and squish it all together with your bare hands. (How butch!)
2. Cover and refrigerate overnight while your pursue other forms of amusement.
3. In the morning, last night's entertainment can help you press the mixture into 24 balls (A thought I relish!)
4. Flatten each ball into a patty. (My, my.)
5. Heat a little oil in a skillet over medium-high heat and fry your sausage for about 4 minutes on each side, or until cooked through.
6. Drain on paper towels. And serve up your sausage good and hot!

Faux Pas

By Ed E. Kett

Dear Mr. Kett,

If I include a chickenhawk in the guest list of a large dinner party I'm giving, is it necessary that I also invite some chicken for him?

Yours truly,
Simon

Dear Simon,

Most lavish dinner parties usually include everything from soup to nuts; but no, it isn't necessary to invite a partner for all of your guests. Still, if you wish to include something for your guests to nibble on, feel free.

Sincerely,
Edwards Endicott Kett

Dear Mr. Kett,

When is the proper time to tell a handsome stranger that you already have a lover and are happily married?

Always,
Mr. Kenneth

Dear Mr. Kenneth,

Before your lover beats you to it.

Euphemia

Dear Euphemia,

My wonderful new lover's family is huge and dozens of relatives live nearby.

He recently gave me an ultimatum; either I should become part of his family or we should split. He says that anyone he makes a long-term commitment to must accept and be accepted by his family. I agreed to try.

For my introduction to his family, we went to an affair attended by many relatives. I have never heard such screeching, such snarling, such calling of names, such dredging up of past offenses, nor seen such copious tears, such rudeness, such condescension, such indifference to other people's feelings.

One old man, a great-great uncle I think, sensed my discomfort and tried to explain that all the carryings-on were just an "ethnic" way of showing familial interest, love, and affection. What a shock it was to learn that behavior that I've always thought to be indicative of pure, unadulterated hatred was a way of showing interest, love, and affection.

What shall I do? Members of my family address each other using "thee" and "thy." From birth, I was taught to value and practice quietness and silence, to respect other people's privacy, to be unobtrusive, and always to speak softly and in well-modulated tones.

To make things even worse, my new "mother-in-law" is now loudly demanding that I bring my folks to the next such family get-together. Help!

Hank

Dear Hank,

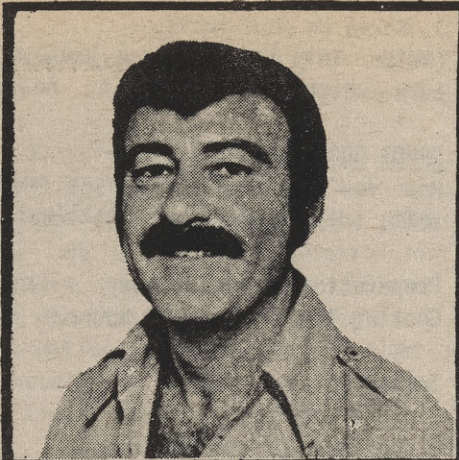

So, you really love this guy, huh? Then, all you have to do to be accepted is shut up and eat! Always have seconds! Tune everything else out or pretend you're at the movies.

If you don't want your lover to be part of your own family, why should that matter? I always feel saddened by those who have a compulsion to expose their lovers to their families. I love the pleasant privacy of protecting my pal from the whatevers! (And by the way, my own mom, being a true soap-opera character, would LOVE to be right in the middle, directing everything.)

When your mother-in-law asks about your family, explain their religious beliefs, etc. At the same time, explain to your folks (if you can) that your friend's parents would like to meet them. If they say "no", then "no" is the word. You in-laws will just have to settle for that, like it or not.

And, Hank, always carry a thermos of hot chicken soup with you wherever you go, especially to your lover's family gatherings. When things seem to be getting out of hand, take a sip or two. It's very calming. Believe me because I know!

DOING AMERICA WITH BOB DAMRON

MADISON

Madison is one of the peppiest capital cities in America! It is the second largest city in Wisconsin, and has a population of nearly 200,000. It is located just eighty miles west of big sister city Milwaukee.

With four distinct seasons, Madison welcomes each like the return of an old friend. To be sure, the winters are long and cold, but this only heightens the anticipation of spring and the appearance of millions of buds and wild flowers. Warm and mild summers are followed by autumn, the most spectacularly colorful season.

The large, sprawling University of Wisconsin with forty thousand students and a faculty of 10,000 has one of the most beautiful campuses in the midwest.

The Roman renaissance styled capitol building lies at the heart of the city of Madison and is its most commanding feature. Other nearby points of interest include 'House on the Rock,' Blue Mound and Tower Hill State parks, Cave of the Mounds, Little Norway, Tyrol Ski Basin, and Wisconsin Dells.

Madison bars are open daily, but get an early start because they have last call by 12:45 AM.

Rod's at 636 W. Washington, is a hot, macho, not-exactly-leather cruise bar. It has a patio, small disco, and erotic boutique called Something Different.

Sam's is a very popular new men's disco at 1206 Regent St. Enter through the rear (where else?) of the parking lot in front.

A new women's disco called Emily's at 508 E. Wilson has just opened and should be a winner. Also use the back entrance.

The Cardinal is a small disco at 418 E. Wilson, which attracts mostly men, some women, and a few straight couples.

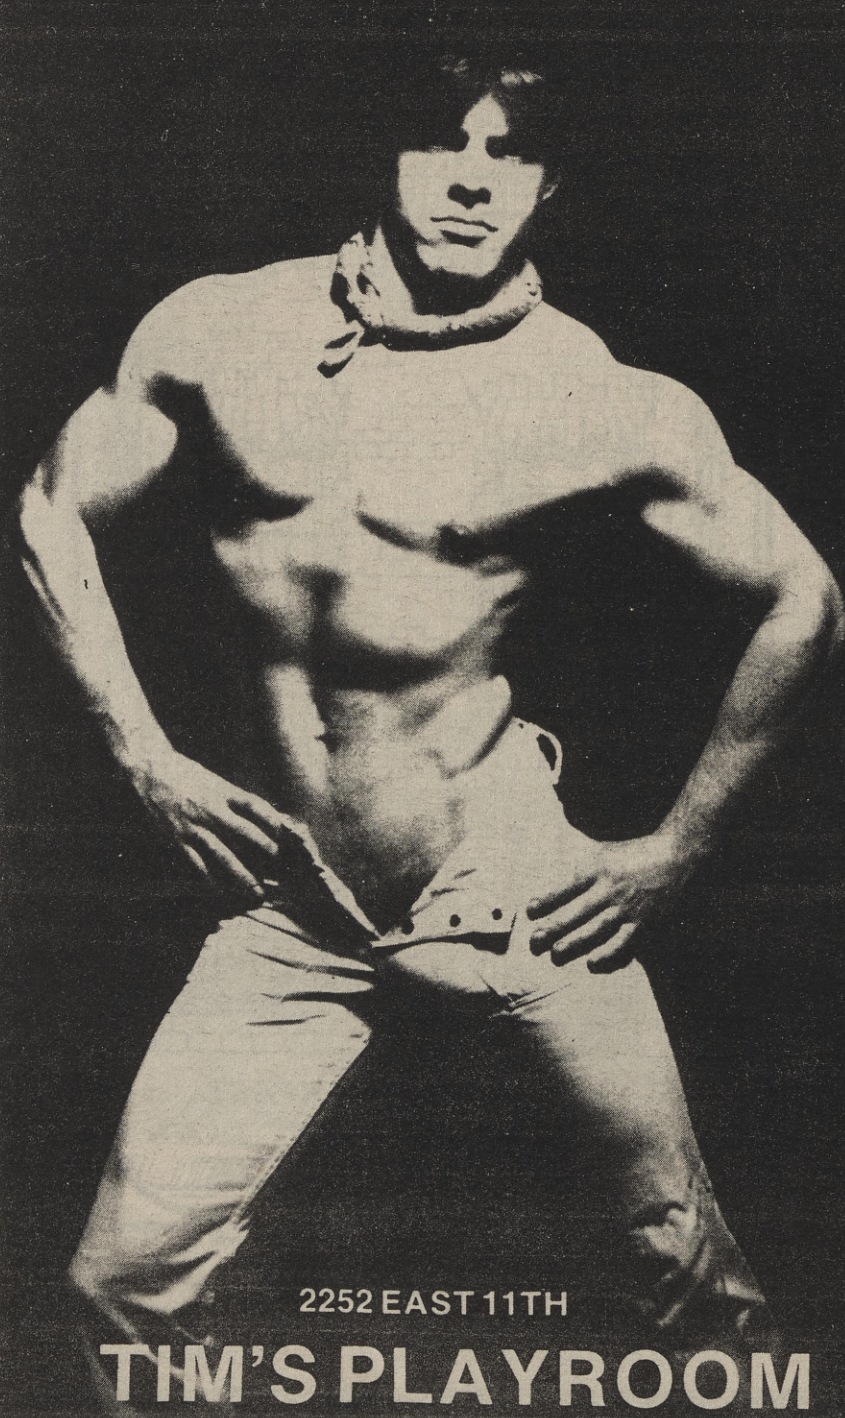

The Palms, located in the front of the Washington Hotel, is a gay coffee shop open until 3 AM.

Bakers Room above the Ovens of Brittany is a mixed place, good for light snacks.

Mall Books at 231 State St. is one of several lesbian/gay bookstores and has video tapes and private viewing rooms in back.

STATE CAPITOL IN MADISON

Madison is known as the "city of four lakes" and indeed, it is a beautifully situated community. All sorts of recreational facilities are available within the city limits, which are surrounded by lakes Mendota, Monona, Wingra, and Waubesa. On any reasonable hospitable day you will see thousands of residents and students jogging, cycling, boating, or sun bathing. A thriving center for education, state government, manufacturing, and recreation, Madison is a city that is youth oriented but can offer something for everyone.

For more detailed information, pick up a copy of the BOB DAMRON ADDRESS BOOK '84--America's foremost travel guide--available at most better bars, baths, and bookstores throughout America.

Sex-Change Pilot Sues

A pilot with a commercial airline has filed suit to get back the job she lost when she underwent an operation to switch gender.

The former Kenneth F. Ulane, 41, sued Eastern Airlines to get back the $60,000 a year job. The airline company fired Ulane after 12 years as a pilot when she had an operation to become a woman in 1980. In 1981, Eastern fired her, citing medical and safety reasons.

Ulane was a pilot for more than 15 years with seven combat missions in Vietnam. He was decorated for his performance and also served as a flight instructor for the Air Force.

Eastern contends that Ulane suffers psychological identity problems as a result of the sex change. Ulane maintains that the airline is sexually discriminating against her.

Ulane maintains that she is a well-adjusted woman. She contends in her suit that her internal sex is that of a female, she is psychologically a female, her hormone profile is that of a female, and socially she is a female.

Dan White's New Problem

Pressure is mounting to keep Dan White, convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the 1978 killings of San Francisco Mayor George Mosconi and gay Supervisor Harvey Milk, behind bars. Mayor Dianne Feinstein was the latest person to jump into the fray with a personal appeal to the US Attorney General to prosecute White under a federal civil rights law.

White is scheduled for release from state prison in January 1984. Federal prosecution would be based on the interference by White with the political duties of Mosconi and Milk.

Earlier Governor Deukmejian urged officials to pursue federal prosecution. The same position was adopted unanimously by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

In her letter urging federal action, Feinstein commented that White's sentence was inadequate and damaged the credibility of the criminal justice system. She indicated that unless remedial action were taken, White would be perceived as a public official whose special status enabled him to get away with murder.

A pound of honey contains the essence of two million flowers.

AIDS Update

Federal scientists now say that AIDS may be caused by a plant fungus that mimics a drug used to lower immunity in organ transplant patients.

Although the results are extremely preliminary, researcher Dr. Thomas Folks said, "We are working around the clock on it. We are very excited about it."

The fungus has been found in the blood of victims of AIDS. It produces a substance that is chemically similar to cyclosporin, a new drug used to temporarily lower natural resistance in transplant patients.

Unusual forms of the fungus, called Thermoascus crustaceus, have been found in the blood of three AIDS patients by researchers from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases in Bethesda, Md. The work was described in the latest edition of the NEW ENGLAND JOURNAL OF MEDICINE.

Ordinarily, Thermoascus crustaceus is found in plants in many parts of the world and it grows in warm places such as under rotting leaves. It seems to thrive best at the temperature of the human body. Until the scientists found the fungus in the AIDS patients' blood, it had never been known to live inside humans.

The fungus makes a chemical called CyAIDS. In their report, the scientists said they found high levels of CyAIDS in the blood of AIDS patients but not in the blood of well people. They also suggested that the fungus may be spread through blood or dirty needles, the same way the AIDS germ, if there be one, is thought to be transmitted.

More Euphemia

Dear Euphemia,

Why is it, do you suppose, that every pair of new shoes I buy squeaks. No one else that I know has this problem. My Mother says it's because I've not been born again and am on my way to the Devil. My Sister says it's because I'm gay and that all the noise is God's way of letting other people know that I'm queer. Dad says it's because I don't like sports and therefore my feet don't fit normal mens' shoes right. What do you think?

Jimmie

Jimmie, Jimmie, Jimmie,

I have known and loved shoes since Dorothy tippy-toed her way down the Yellow Bricks! Joan Crawford and I pumped our ways to the top! So about shoes, I know.

Some shoes are rubber-soled, and on tile floors, they tend to squeak embarrassingly. As to all of the strange little beliefs of your family, ignore them; those beliefs are nothing but superstitions.

If the shoe squeaks, don't wear it. Get another pair. And don't listen to old wives' tales.

More GRNL

The House of Representatives Appropriations Committee recently voted $41.1 million for AIDS activities in fiscal year 1984, and Senate Appropriations Subcommittee Chairperson Lowell Weicker agreed to approve "whatever is needed" for FY 1984 AIDS research.

The Gay Rights National Lobby (GRNL) had sought an appropriation of $52.6 million directly for AIDS, $30 million for the Public Health Emergency Fund, and $1.5 million for psychological research on AIDS by the National Institute of Mental Health.

GRNL credits Representative Edward Roybal (D-CA) for pushing the Appropriations Committee to increase AIDS research funding and to adopt recommendations. The recommendations which the Committee adopted include a directive to the Secretary of Health and Human Services to carry out a public health education program and a directive to request more money in 1984 if needed.

GRNL also addressed the US Conference of Local Health Officers and the Association of State and Territorial Health Offices which held a one-day seminar on AIDS in Washington, DC. GRNL's Bart Church stressed the need for greater educational efforts on AIDS and asked the officials for immediate support of HR 3702 which would establish a $60-million fund in Health and Human Services to promote treatment and prevention activities by federal agencies dealing with "public health emergencies." Church also criticized the Reagan Administration for its lack of support for public health education.

Berkeley

Boalt Hall, the law school of the University of California at Berkeley, has amended the anti-discrimination policy of its placement Office to provide protection for lesbian and gay students. Under its new policy, Boalt will deny the use of its interviewing facilities to employers who discriminate in selecting employees on the basis of sexual orientation, as well as on the basis of national origin, race, religion, or sex.

Boalt is the first law school to adopt a placement policy protecting lesbian and gay students since the Judge Advocate General (JAG) threatened last year to withdraw all defense funds from seven universities whose law schools have such policies. Being lesbian or gay is a ground for discharge in all branches of the United States armed forces.

Based on its new policy, Boalt barred the JAG Corps from interviewing at the law school this spring. Unless they change their hiring practices, the FBI and the CIA will also be barred.

Adoption of the policy came after four years of lobbying by the Boalt Lesbian and Gay Caucus. The student/faculty Placement Committee unanimously recommended the new policy, and a faculty vote overwhelmingly favored it.

Three years ago, Boalt surveyed all employers using its placement facilities to determine what weight, if any, they gave to a job applicant's sexual orientation. Many replied, "None." Other responses included, "Significant weight," "We will not employ perverts or deviants," and "We have never thought to inquire of applicants regarding their sexual orientation; however, an applicant for whom the subject has importance should probably not apply."

Additional information may be obtained by writing to the Boalt Lesbian and Gay Caucus, Room 37, Boalt Hall School of Law, Berkeley, California 94720.

San Jose

The Savoy Spirits is a gay women's softball team representing San Jose, and they have been invited to participate in a tournament in Hawaii over Thanksgiving. To help finance the trip, several fund-raisers have been held including T-shirts, car washes, spaghetti dinners, raffles, a beer bust, a bowl-a-thon, and a gay carnival. To date, the team has raised $5000, but needs an additional $4000 to cover the cost of plane fare for the team. Anyone who would like to contribute to the Spirits' dream tournament should send donations to: Savoy Spirits c/o Ann Codianne, 2097 Arizona Ave., Milpitas, CA 95035. Make checks payable to Savoy Spirits. For further information, please call the Savoy Bar at (408) 446-0948.

Columbus

A team of researchers in Columbus, Ohio has produced a study showing that the stereotype of gays as child molesters is a myth.

The scientists studied 60 abused children between the ages of 8 months and 17 years. The research team, based at Ohio State University, concluded that half of the attackers of young boys were members of the family. The most likely person to be a molester was a teenage uncle.

The researcher concluded that molesters are not selective about the sex of the child. Rather, victims are selected on the basis of their availability. The study determined that boys are less likely to report instances of sexual abuse than are girls.

Philadelphia

A major Philadelphia fundraiser for AIDS will feature comedian David Brenner and singer Jane Olivor. The fundraiser, being billed as a "Night of Hope," will be held in the grand ballroom of the Bellevue Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia on Thursday, November 17. The planning committee said the event will include a $150-a-plate sit-down dinner with dancing to the Gerry Carol Orchestra and entertainment by Brenner and Olivor.

Part of the proceeds from the ball will go to the Philadelphia AIDS Task Force. Dr. Roger Enlow, Director of the New York City Department of Health Office of Gay/Lesbian Health, will be honored at the event.

Oregon

Gay Rights National Lobby (GRNL) Deputy Director Jerry Weller was recently awarded the Right to Privacy PAC's Lucille Hart Award. The award was given jointly to Weller along with the thirteen Oregon State Senators who voted in favor of the Oregon lesbian and gay civil rights bill in the 1983 Legislative Session. Senator Jim Gardner (D-Portland) accepted the award on behalf of the thirteen Senators.

Los Angeles

Hundreds of gay and lesbian professionals, business owners, and company representatives are expected to attend the National Association of Business Council's (NABC) third annual gathering from Thursday, November 3 to Sunday, November 6.

Among the events of the four-day schedule is a banquet on Saturday, November 5. Hank Koehn, a fascinating speaker (as well as the Vice-President of Futures Research for Security Pacific Bank), will deliver the keynote address.

Culminating the evening will be the NABC's awards presentation. Debbie Reynolds will receive the Humanitarian Award for her ongoing efforts to raise funds for AIDS research. The Business Award will be accepted by the Miller's Brewing Company. The recipient of the Political Award is to be announced shortly.

In addition to delegate meetings and workshops, a number of exciting optional events, and a special cocktail party at Los Angeles City Hall, the convention will present an exciting series of seminars and panels designed for gay and lesbian business persons. Subjects range from "Real Estate: Investments and Co-ownerships," and "Discrimination in Employment" to leadership and financial issues, marketing, advertising, and communications.

Further information and registration applications may be obtained by writing to BAPA, PO Box 69982, Los Angeles, California 90069, or by calling (213) 659-6376 weekdays between 9 AM and 1 PM Pacific Time. Members and non-members are equally welcome.

Boston

A divorced mother's lesbian relationship doesn't interfere with her ability to assume joint custody of her 12 year old son, a Massachusetts Appeals Court recently ruled in Boston. Testimony revealed that the boy had lived with his mother for some time and is comfortable and gets along well with his mother's roommate. Judge Charlotte A. Perretta, who visited the homes of the father and mother, described the wife as a loving person with good parenting skills. Perretta held that should the wife be awarded some form of custody, her lifestyle would not adversely affect the minor child. The mother said she developed her lesbian feelings after the divorce from her husband three years ago.

Baton Rouge

The Baton Rouge Area Gay Political Action Caucus (BRAGPAC) exists to work through the political structure for equality and civil rights of all gays in East and West Baton Rouge, East and West Feliciana, Livingston, Ascension, Iberville, St. James, Point Coupee, St. Helena, Assumption, and Tangipahoa parishes. BRAGPAC hopes to repeal existing criminal statutes against sexual expression between consenting adults, to protect gays in employment and gaining access to housing and public accommodations, and to develop political clout through voter registration, education, and turnout.

The strength of BRAGPAC lies in its membership which, though small, is working to increase voter registration in the area. BRAGPAC, has also been in contact with the local candidates for public office to determine their attitudes toward the gay community.

For more information, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: BRAGPAC PO Box 19098, Baton Rouge, LA 70893.

New York

The US Supreme Court is expected to rule in mid 1984 on the constitutionality of a New York law which is used to prevent gay persons from gathering in public places. The case could be the most important for gay rights to come before the high court in a decade.

The New York law prohibits loitering for the purposes of engaging in sodomy. In Buffalo, the law was enforced against gay persons as well as female prostitutes. The New York court struck the law down because it had previously held that state officials may not prohibit sexual behavior conducted in private between consenting adults. Prosecutors in Buffalo appealed the case.

The Supreme Court has expanded the right to privacy concept in the US Constitution over the past 20 years. However, the court has repeatedly refused to decide whether state sodomy laws violate the right to privacy.

A group of gay people interested in using computers to help gay individuals and gay organizations has started meeting in New York City. The participants believe that computers benefit such individuals and organizations.

The New York group hopes to attract more individuals with similar interests and to contact groups to learn about their needs.

Anyone with an interest in media, communications, and computers is welcome.

For more information, interested individuals should contact: Telecommunications Information Project (TIP), Post Office Box A, Old Chelsea Station, New York, NY 10011.

New Orleans

A Women's Pavilion, the first of its kind, is planned for the Louisiana World Exposition which will be held in New Orleans from May 12 through November 11, 1984.

The Women's Pavilion will celebrate a century of women's achievements in the home and workplace, in science, government, sports, literature, education, and the arts.

"Women in the Mainstream" is organizing the Women's Pavilion which will feature programs honoring Women of Achievement from 1884-1984, a national art exhibition, a national women's quilt exhibition, and a multipurpose exhibit area with the theme "Women's Creativity."

At the close of the exposition, the Women's Pavilion will become part of a permanent museum and women's center in New Orleans.

For more information on participation in the Women's Pavilion as a volunteer, art contributor, or fundraiser, contact Women in the Mainstream, Box 828, St. Mary's Dominican College, 7214 St. Charles Ave., New Orleans, LA 70118. (504) 861-4588.

Las Cruces

Lambda Las Cruces has been officially recognized by New Mexico State University which will now permit the group to have full use of university facilities.

Lambda--NMSU, as the new group will be known, will hold meetings on the first and third Mondays of each month at 7:30 PM.

The approval of the NMSU group heralds a major accomplishment for gay people of the entire state. New Mexico State University has in the past withheld recognition to gay groups on the basis that they were immoral and unwanted in the campus community. The recognition of Lambda-NMSU clearly represents a turn in these attitudes which have been so harmful to gays in the past. Members of the group, in an attempt to help clear any bad feelings that still exist in the area, have pledged themselves to work closely with other NMSU groups.

Denver

Dignity/Denver will hold a tea dance called "The Proper Affair" on November 12 from 2-6 PM at Oscar Wilde's, 815 Federal in Denver. A $3 dollar donation gains admittance to the event, billed as a Dignity fundraiser and to raise public awareness of Dignity. Free beer and soft drinks will be served.

Fargo

My Place, North Dakota's only known gay and lesbian bar, opened recently. According to owner Lenny Tweeden, a long-time resident of Fargo, the bar will offer a relaxed atmosphere, plenty of seating, two pool tables, and good listening music for everyone.

Albuquerque

The Wilde Bunch is a gay square dance group in Albuquerque which provides an alternative form of entertainment for the gay and lesbian community.

The Wilde Bunch will start beginners classes periodically. To register for dance classes, or for more information, call Don Durham at (505) 266-3615.

Wichita

The Mission of Faith Fellowship, where gay people are welcome, holds services every Sunday at 10 AM in Wichita. The church is located at 1744 Fairview. For more information, contact Pastor Williams at that address or telephone (316) 263-1420.

Stockton

On Sunday, November 13, Nites in Black Leather will have a special beer bust and canned-food drive to help the Stockton Council of Churches and MCC Stockton gather food for Thanksgiving. The event will be held at Paradise, 4206 N. West Lane, Stockton, CA. A $3 donation will be requested.

San Diego

The Gay Academic Union (GAU) will present special awards to eleven individuals and two organizations at an awards dinner in San Diego, November 26, 1983. The dinner, a fund-raising effort for the National GAU Scholarship program, is part of GAU-9, the Ninth National Conference of the Gay Academic Union on the campus of the University of California at San Diego.

This is the fifth presentation of annual awards by GAU, an organization of lesbian and gay academics and professionals with chapters and members nationwide. The awards are designed to recognize and honor the achievements of individuals in various fields who have made significant contributions to gay scholarship and understanding and the enhancement of the gay experience.

Previous recipients have included such individuals as Abigail Van Buren of "Dear Abby" fame, and former California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr. The 1983 recipients represent an equally wide spectrum.

The awards dinner will be held at the La Jolla Village Inn in San Diego beginning at 7:30 PM Saturday, November 26. Tickets are $25 with all proceeds earmarked for the GAU National Scholarship program. Reservations must be made in advance; tickets will not be available at the door. Reservations can be made by writing: GAU Awards Dinner, PO Box 82123, San Diego, CA 92138.

Susanville

A seminar entitled "AIDS: Social and Medical Perspectives" will be held November 30, 1983, from 1-5 PM at Lassen College, School of Nursing, Susanville, California. This seminar is sponsored by Lassen College and the Sacramento chapter of the AIDS/KS Foundation.

The seminar will improve the knowledge in the Susanville community about AIDS by bringing together professionals in the health field to talk about medical and psychosocial issues.

Persons interested in attending the seminar, please contact Faith Koller, Director of Nursing, Lassen College School of Nursing, (916) 257-6181.

Oklahoma City

When a gay group was denied the use of The Great Hall in the Myriad Convention Center, Oklahoma City for the final night of The Official Miss Gay America pageant, a lawsuit was filed in Federal District Court against Oklahoma City, Oklahoma City Public Property Authority, and the Oklahoma City Manager. The lawsuit contended that the defendants' actions constituted an arbitrary denial of access to public facilities and a restraint of First Amendment rights to freedom of speech.

Recently, a favorable decision was handed down, and the City Manager was ordered to rent the facility at the customary rental rate.

St. Louis

Alternatives to Living in Violent Environments (ALIVE) is seeking St. Louis County residents who will open their homes to battered women and children for emergency stays of four days or less.

The people who are helped by ALIVE are in a crisis situation where a wait of even a few hours can be serious.

The services are designed for all women in need. Special arrangements will be made to provide a receptive environment for lesbians and their children who are in need of emergency housing.

ALIVE encourages all capable country residents to participate in this program. Help is also needed for transportation and administrative functions. For more information contact ALIVE, Inc., 7124 Dartmouth, St. Louis, MO or call (314) 721-6612.

Clear Lake

By Bill Mooney

Indian Summer has arrived at Clearlake. The days are warm, the nights are cool, and it's almost time to sit around the fireplace and relax. The holidays always seem to arrive early, don't they? But we are always ready at Clearlake for a good time.

The second annual Gay Catfish Derby was held in October and was a huge success. Now there is talk of establishing an annual Gay Bass Derby. Seems reasonable that if there are gay catfish there also ought to be gay bass lurking around somewhere, wouldn't you think?

SUNSET POINT is planning exciting events in the weeks ahead, starting off with a Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings. Better keep an eye on that GENE; we hear that he is good at stuffing! ANDY & GENE are looking forward to seeing all you readers of the PATLAR GAZETTE for dinner. How about it?

When in Lakeport, you should stop by a new restaurant called KIRBY'S VILLAGE "A" RESTAURANT. It's at 1175 North Main Street, and it's open for breakfast and lunch.

Here in Clearlake the winter rates for most of the resorts have started. Call TWENTY OAKS COURT (707) 998-3012 or SUNSET POINT (707) 998-9933 to make sure that you have a room for the holidays.

By the way, at the end of each month, the CABARET holds a white-elephant auction along with a pot-luck dinner, so bring a couple of items from your closet and make some money.

Get ready for bingo night at THE CABARET and full moon madness, Nov. 19-20.

All of Clearlake would like to wish everyone a Happy Thanksgiving! And remember, keep up with things going on around here by reading the PATLAR!

Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Ohio, has a reputation for being a sleepy and conservative town, but this is changing. Stonewall Cincinnati, a lesbian/gay political-action group, is working to bring about change.

For the first time in Cincinnati history, an incumbent city council member has accepted the endorsement of a gay group. Two non-incumbents have also accepted endorsements.

Stonewall Cincinnati has risen to prominence quickly. The greater Cincinnati Gay Coalition (GCGC) has been responsible for many community and social affairs in Cincinnati's lesbian/gay life, including the annual Gay Pride Rally. This Pride Rally was for many years the only regular such Pride Rally in Ohio; however, one Pride Rally per year was insufficient to influence the Cincinnati establishment.

Stonewall Cincinnati was formed to focus and exert gay political power on the established system.

Michigan

Four male students who attend Michigan State University allege they were raped on campus by other men. The attacks occurred within a year's time. Campus police are puzzled because there are few similarities in the cases.

Contra Costa

The CONTRA COSTA AIDS ACTION PROGRAM (CCAAP) is a support program for people who have AIDS and for those who are "worried-well." The project offers regularly scheduled community forums for the Diablo Valley area. The second of these forums will be held Tuesday, November 15, 7:30-9 PM at Diablo Valley Community Center, 1818 Colfax Street, Concord. Two facilitators from local-health care facilities will be present. The CCAAP also sponsors support groups for people who have AIDS and provides personal and confidential counseling as required. For more information, telephone Diablo Valley Community Center at (415) 827-2960.

East Berlin

The first open appearance of a gay or lesbian organization in East Berlin in over 50 years occurred recently at an outdoor fair and exhibition sponsored by the East German peace movement. A dozen lesbians and gay men answered questions at information tables. Men staffing the tables wore handmade pink triangles, a symbol of gay pride that originated in Nazi concentration camps of World War II. The focus of informational materials was on the desire of gay persons to achieve full acceptance in East German society and for the communist government to recognize homosexuals as a group with special needs. It is not known whether more public events will be held, although homosexuality is already legal in East Germany. It is not known how such activities is viewed by the ruling Communist Party.

Mexico City

Nuevo Ambiente, a gay newspaper in Mexico, is looking for Spanish speaking subscribers in this country. The address is Nuevo Ambiente. Grupo Lambda, Apartado Postal 73-130, Mexico 12 D.F., Mexico

The gay press in Latin America appears to be growing stronger. Mexico City's Grupo Lambda printed another edition of its paper this year after a two-year absence. In Caracas, Venezuela, a recent editorial in Entendido reproached politicians and police because of bar raids and harassment over the past two years. The paper also carried several advertisements which is rare for Latin American gay periodicals.

Tokyo

Sex parlors in Tokyo's famed Yoshiwara District have begun posting signs reading "Japanese Men Only" as a measure to prevent the spread of AIDS in that country.

One bathhouse owner said that although it is a regrettable decision and may impair international friendship, it is their only recourse at this time. Japan, to date, has had no reported cases of AIDS.

Paris

Paris police report that at least 3,000 people appear nightly in that city's famed Bois de Boulogne park for romps in the underbrush. Many of these nocturnal visitors are merely the curious, but for the most part, the population consists of prostitutes, transvestites, and of all horrible things, homosexuals!

Since mid-August police have made a concerted effort to discourage the nightly forages; but even with a record 1,102 arrests in a four week period, people continue to flock to this 2,000-acre brothel. One enterprising entrepreneur has printed a guide in French, English, and Japanese detailing the exact locations for whatever fantasy one desires. The book titled "Sexual Map of the Bois de Boulogne" is enjoying a brisk sales at 39 francs ($4.90) at newsstands throughout Paris.

ATTENTION all you tens of thousands of Sacramento opera queens out there...and you all know exactly who you are...don't you dare forget the Sacramento Opera's production of Tosca coming up November 11 (evening) and 13 (matinee) at the Community Center. Out-of-town stars will sing the male leads, but Sacto's own beloved operatic super star, Jacqueline Victorino, will leap to her death in the title role. Let's all get out there and show La Victorino just what kind of ovation Sacramento's gay community can produce. Let's bring down the house after her "Vissi d'Arte" and show those San Francisco opera queens a thing or two.

Greetings from the City of Brotherly Shove and The Big Apple. For awhile I was home in Philadelphia visiting my Dad who was seriously ill. He's doing OK, so now I'm in New York. For those of you who have not seen New York, you owe it to yourself to go there because it's an unforgettable experience...The best of everything is in NYC, particularly the musicals. This trip I've had the good luck to see La Cage aux Folles which was a big surprise for me. So I'm going to review it for you...Naturally I'd seen the movie; what Sacramento queen hasn't? But I expected the musical to be a shallow farce with caricatures instead of characters. I expected the good music, the good performances, the lavish sets and costumes. But I never expected to be profoundly moved, which I was. Harvey Fierstein's book is full of warmth and gentle humor that come from his ability to get the audience to identify with the characters on stage. The story is about Georges, the owner of a nightclub in the south of France. Georges' lover of nearly 20 years, Albin, is the star female impersonator at his club. Georges has a son, the fortunate result of an unfortunate one-night stand 20 years earlier. Georges and Albin have raised young Jean-Michel with more love than most children ever get in a lifetime. And to Jean-Michel, Albin is one of his parents. Trouble comes when Jean-Michel announces his engagement to a lovely girl whose parents are homophobic bigots. The problems caused by this turn of events lead the characters into situations that are often hilarious, often moving, and always deeply human. The love between Georges and Albin is so touching that the audience actually wept when it looked as though they might split up. At the end, the audience leaped to its feet and cheered. I mention the audience because it is such an important part of the phenomenon that is La Cage aux Folles. It's a double experience with a play going on on stage and another kind of drama going on in the aisles. When one beautiful middle-aged man sang to another about their enduring love, well you know old emotional me, I had to start doing my boohoo number. All my life I'd wanted to see a Broadway musical about the love of two men, so when it happened, I just let go. And it seemed to me that everyone else in that predominantly straight-appearing crowd was moved to tears also. Jerry Herman has written a memorable score. As Georges, Gene Barry turned in a marvelous performance. He was suave, attractive, funny, and charming, and he sang beautifully. His performance brought to Georges all the tenderness the character requires. In the more flamboyant role of Albin, George Hearn (who like Gene Barry is an excellent singer) scored another kind of triumph. He made it seem perfectly natural that a man should mother a boy. And he made performing in drag look like the respectable profession it can be. The rest of the cast was equally superb. Director Arthur Laurents has done a perfect job pulling the elements together into a unified whole, including Les Cagelles, the bevy of transvestite beauties who perform at the Georges' club; two of them were played by "real" women by the way! The only flaw that I noticed was the choreography which I think could have had a little more pizzazz. If you have a chance to see this marvelous musical, don't miss it. It may well be the best musical you'll ever see...By the way, Sacramento's newest gay support group is an organization called Transition which focuses on the needs of gay Latter-day Saints (Mormons). PEOPLE

By Kris

Bettina, a top-quality performer who recently finished a very successful stint at Sacramento's K Street, has gone on to a five-week gig at the Hotel El Rancho. She spent two years representing Sacramento as an empress of the GNIE Court. Her background includes twelve years of performing experience in Sacramento, Reno, Tahoe, and on a cruise ship. Bettina is now back in town perfecting a cabaret repertoire.

Bettina sees her music as entertaining, a way to release inhibitions, and an outlet to cure anything that ails people. "I want to take them away from their thoughts, everything that bothers them; and when I bring them back, I want to say, I hope you had as good a time as I did."

Her preparation consists of voice lessons, breathing, and music theory, plus 20 to 60 hours for every hour she spends on stage. "A lot of my rehearsing is done right up there on stage. The kind of work I do involves an audience. I think gay audiences are one of the best training grounds. They are more enlightened to what a show is, what cabaret is, and are far more appreciative."

As to whether gay affiliation will hurt her appeal for straight establishments, she responds, "Frankly, I want to be so comfortable with myself and the kind of person that I am that I don't want that to bother me, and I want to be able to stand up to people who have something to say about it. People who support me and love me should be able to go anywhere I go. I don't want that to be any kind of determination of what I'm going to do, what I'm going to say, who I'm going to be."

Bettina Barboza is appearing at Hotel El Rancho Tues-Thurs 8:30 PM-12:30, and Fri and Sat 8:30 PM-1:30.

Aunt Wiennie's

Recently, Aunt Wiennie's, a new hot-dog stand located at 2330 Stockton Boulevard here in Sacramento, celebrated its grand opening. There was music and dancing as hundreds of Sacramentans stuffed Wiennie's delicacies into their ever-appreciative mouths.

Paulette Jacobson, owner of Wiennie's, boasts a menu of three dogs and a polish sausage, plus a vegetarian dogless dog for those who shy away from meat. A combination of red-cabbage recipe, cheddar cheese, and no-perservative buns, especially made locally for Wiennie's make these doggies something special to taste.

Auntie provides a deck full of tables and chairs to belly up to and a cart full of flowers to take to the loved one you left starving at home.

As to the name, after much deliberation, it was narrowed from Uncle Frank to Aunt Wiennie's. Hours are Monday thru Friday, 11-3:30 PM. Go "woof one down," and tell Paulette that the PATLAR sent you.

GETTING THERE

By Tom Dolan

Whatever became of Sheila, that little girl in pigtails, the one I fell in love with in fourth grade? She was the prettiest girl in school if not the whole world.

And what happened to Pauline, who used to pal around with me in ninth grade? She was homely in the way Sophia Loren must have been homely as a young girl. Pauline had a lovely, long, and euphonious Italian surname, which she changed to something short and Anglo-sounding.

I still don't understand the powerful attraction I felt for Betty, the girl who first caught my eye when we sophomores in high school. Her steady boyfriend, Alan, confided to me, "She's more beautiful than any movie star," something I did not need to be told, especially by him. With her cow eyes, alabaster skin, scarlet lips, and shiny black hair, the movie star she most resembled was Snow White. What did Alan, Betty's steady, have that I didn't have (besides Betty)? I wasn't attracted to Alan and didn't understand why Betty was.

On some level Betty may have sensed I was gay and chose not to risk romantic involvement for that reason. We were never more than friends. The only encouragement she ever gave me was a sisterly kiss at a party.

One Christmas I gave her a little round compact that shone like gold. Right after Christmas vacation she returned it, saying she couldn't possibly accept such an expensive gift. It wouldn't be "right."

All through high school I tried to get interested in other girls. But when other girls kissed me, I didn't feel much. I thought that was because they weren't Betty. I had feelings for guys, but I didn't know what those feelings meant or what to do with them. I tried not to pay attention to what guys made me feel.

Just recently, I found myself staring at a particular man and not knowing why. It wasn't his body. It wasn't his hair. Finally it hit me. He had Betty's eyes.

The first woman to touch me "there" was Flo. She was as warm and available as Betty was cool and inaccessible. We spent hours and hours necking while I wrestled with a Catholic conscience and wondered if my hard-on bothered her. I had no idea girls could be so much fun.

I first noticed Carol, who later became my wife and the mother of my children, when she strode across the stage in Thornton Wilder's THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH.

Carol was gorgeous and had a strong, Edna St. Vincent Millay voice. In her blonde, Dutch Boy haircut she was androgynous, irresistible. Her approach to life was as passionate as her lovemaking. Our interests and values coincided. Bingo! Although we are now divorced and rarely see each other, I still love her.

Women continue to be very important to me (I have three daughters). In recent years, Lesbian and heterosexual women have been among my closest friends. When separatists tell me gay men should associate with other gay men exclusively, consigning gay or lesbian women as well as heterosexuals to other ghettos, I am unable to support them. In my experience, women and men have too much to offer each other and have enriched each other's lives for too long to be separated now. I, for one, am not permitting that to happen in my life.
